ABSTRACT

Furst Mason Solo is one of the new private companies that has just built a company in Solo, Furst Mason is engaged in the clothing and merchandise manufacturing industry. Furst Mason can produce Several types of clothing, Including: polo shirts, long sleeve shirts, raglan shirts and vintage shirts. During this time, the introduction of the Furst Mason company used conventional methods, such as company introductions that were only given to guests visiting Furst Masons. So the introduction of a company that is done in this way has the disadvantage of not providing detailed descriptions of the Product and How to Order.

In this study, Researchers try to analyze the main problems that exist and apply current information technology advancements. The process of introducing the company Furst Mason Solo was developed by making a product advertising videos by adding motion graphic animation techniques that are equipped with multimedia elements such as animation, text, audio, and video. This product video advertisement Provides all information about ordering Furst Mason to the public.

The results of research conducted in the manufacture of video advertising this product has fulfilled the multimedia aspects and information aspects. Making a video advertisement for the company's products is expected to be a solution to introduce the public to help prospective customers find detailed information on how to order Furst Mason Solo.
