CHAPTER V

DISCUSSION

5.1   Conclusion

Based on the results of information system design as a promotional tool Café Konco is a Web-based, it can be concluded as follows:

1. Website Design and Development at Café Konco can be used as a media campaign and menu and table reservations.

2. Web-based promotion system is one of the media the right to expand the marketing of the Café Konco, so it can be more widely known and increase revenue cafes. Event website promotion system is only as a medium to show the menu names and images contained in the cafe.

3. For reservations system can only be done by the admin. While the administrators must be signed in accordance with brackish their role in operating the system. Admin in the system is divided into three categories have their respective functions, the owner admin, admin waitress and admin cashier.

5.2 Suggestion

In this case I realize that there are still shortcomings in the making of this website, it is suggested for further research in order to complement this website in the future. As for what needs to be done to complete this website is as follows:

1. It is expected to process the payment on the checkout page can be developed further, so that it can carry out the printing struck a more orderly transaction.

2. Repair print and booking orders data and need to be repaired again, so that the data that is printed neatly arranged.

3. The importance of website development is done in order to run maximum performance and control system to prevent it from digital threats.

4. In the user's needs, there are three categories that the user can operate the system, namely Admin Owner, Admin waitress and Admin cashier. It is expected that the next available customer Admin to ordering menu and book a table outside the cafe. And certainly will be good if the added features of a payment transaction using transfer or paypal.
